Court Decides "Ma" Is Eligible

By Telegram to The Freeman. Austin, Tex., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson, Democratic candidate for governor, is eligible to become governor of Texas, Judge Calhoun ruled in district court here today in declining a temporary writ of injunction asked by Charles M. Dixon who sought to restrain Mrs. Ferguson from becoming a candidate in the November elections.

On all points of her eligibility, the nation's first woman gubernatorial candidate emerged victorious in her initial encounter. The "common law" disability against women introduced by the plaintiffs as one of their strongest contentions in their fight for temporary injunction, was held to be immaterial.

Dixon's attorneys announced they would prepare an immediate appeal to the State Supreme Court and if necessary to the United States Supreme Court.

In a lengthy verbal review of the "progress of time" in which he referred back to the first common law of England, the court declared that progress had brought about many changes and that conditions which existed now were not contemplated centuries ago.

Mrs. Ferguson, at the opening of the hearing had charged that a conspiracy existed between disgruntled Democrats and Klansmen to defeat her and bring about the election of George Butler.

Select Girl as Most Intelligent

Harvard University Picks 24-Year-Old Girl From List Submitted by Massachusetts Organization—She Spurns Big Salary to Study Medicine.

Plymouth, Mass., Sept. 29.—Now that the various annual bathing beauty contests are out of the way the Associated Industries of Massachusetts has stepped out and announced Miss Muriel Black as the winner in its search for genius. Miss Black, who is 24 years old, did not enter any of the beauty contests, and that is probably the only reason she was not a winner in that field. Lesser beauties have received popular acclaim.

The belief that in the ranks of industrial workers, valuable genius is lost to the world, led to a searching investigation by the Associated Industries. It resulted directly in the selection of five young men and Miss Black. To Harvard University was assigned the task of selecting the leader in intelligence of the six, and Miss Black was chosen. The report of the board that examined the six read in part:

Four of the boys rated between 129 and 136; that is in the A class. One rated 159. This ranks them on a par with the uppermost five per cent of the 100,000 cases examined in the army testing. The girl, however, scored 175. In personality the girl is very much superior to any of the boys. She showed poise, outlook, a fine physique, excellent practical judgment and great ambition."

Miss Black is employed by the Plymouth Cordage Company, whose location can be found on nautical charts. The offer of a position with any salary she cares to name from a big industrial concern has failed to swerve her from her desire to follow her chosen pursuit, that of medicine. She wishes to become a physician and minister to the ills and misfortunes of childhood. At present she is caring for a group of unfortunate children and coming to Boston once a week to attend a medical course at Boston University.

Macino Won't Say Who Shot Him

Chance of Recovery Slight From Three Bullet Wounds in Body—Identifies Two Men Who Were With Him.

Sam Macino, who was shot near Marlborough last Wednesday afternoon, is still in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, in a serious condition with but little chance of recovering. He has regained consciousness but refuses to tell who did the shooting. Five shots were fired, three of which took effect in his body. He told the authorities that he and three companions were in the car.

When Angelo Giaraldi and Peter Galo, the two men who were picked up by the local authorities and who are now held in the Ulster county jail, were taken to the hospital, they were identified by him as two of the men who were with him at the time he was shot. He refused to tell which one shot him. The fourth man is still at large. Galo maintains that Giaraldi was the man who did the shooting, but Giaraldi continues to tell the same story that he was alone and does not know the other two men.

Galo was picked up near the scene of the shooting by Trooper Alsford and Giaraldi was arrested by the police as he drove his car into Kingston half an hour after the shooting took place. The other man, who jumped from the car and made good his escape after the shooting, is said to be a resident of Newburgh.

Kicker McGurn Sent to Albany

MJL Street Men Who Kicked Out Window in Police Car Asking "How Do You Like Those Apples?" Gets 90 Days in Albany Penitentiary.

"How do you like those apples?" asked Thomas McGurn of MJL street with a grin as he kicked a window out of the police car Sunday night after he had been arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had been picked up by Officer Aley on lower Hasbrouck avenue. He put up a fight at that time and later resisted when the police car drove up to the curb. He was picked up bodily and hurled into the car, and when he picked himself up he drove his foot through the window.

"What did I promise you the last time you were here?" was the question Judge Harry E. Schirick hurled at Thomas when he was arraigned this morning in police court.

"That you'd send me to Albany," replied Thomas, and there was no mirth in his voice.

"Your memory is good; ninety days in the penitentiary at Albany," said Judge Schirick.

Later Officer Soper took the erstwhile Thomas to Albany on the train. Thomas did not ask him "How do you like those apples?"

LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD WAS ATTENDING A PARTY

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Sept. 29.—Ellen Butte, 13, sought as a kidnapping victim when she disappeared Sunday, returned to her home on the lower East Side today and said she had been out on a dancing party at which a lot of other girls were present. Her appearance ended a frantic search and threats of her father against the men who had "kidnaped" his daughter in a shiny new sedan.

The girl said she met a Lithuanian whom she knew, driving a fine new car. She said she knew he was married. She got into the car with this man and two others.

"They said there was a party in Brooklyn," she continued. "I don't have many parties. They told me they would bring me back early and would tell daddy."

Two men brought her back at an early hour today and left her on a corner near her home.

The whole Monroe street district, where the girl was known as "Little Red Riding Hood" was aroused by her reported disappearance.

Passengers Try To Lynch Sailor

While Drunk, He Broke in Passenger's Stateroom and Tried to Strangle Young Woman With Rope—Stewards Save Him for Police.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Hoboken, N. J., Sept. 29.—Stewards flourishing pistols drove back passengers of the S. S. George Washington today when they tried to lynch Christopher C. Dunne, one of the liner's crew, whom a woman passenger accused of attacking her in her stateroom at dawn while the vessel was tied to its pier here. The stewards kept the passengers at bay until police came and took Dunne ashore.

Miss Otille Urban, 22, one of the passengers whom the George Washington was waiting to land, said that Dunne, while drunk, broke into her stateroom and, despite the presence of three or four other women, grappled with her and tried to strangle her with a bit of rope he brought along.

Her screams aroused other passengers, who came flocking to her help. Stewards had succeeded in overpowering Dunne when the passengers rushed him. The stewards then drew pistols and herded the passengers out of the stateroom.

Asked if he intended to stress the Washington oil scandal in the coming state campaign, the governor said:

"We will see what happens when we start."

Says Their "Round-the-World Flight" Is One of Most Notable Historic Scientific Achievements of Century.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Sept. 29.—In addition to being one of the "most notable historic achievements of the century," the "round-the-world flight," just completed by American airmen, has accomplished important results from international viewpoint, Secretary of State Hughes said today in a letter to the war department, commenting on the round the world flight.

"The establishment of friendly contact in the various countries visited, the strength and efficiency of the air service, which the flight evidenced, and the new prestige which the flyers have brought to our flag will have a far reaching effect on the international relations of this country, the benefits of which cannot be over estimated," he declared.

EPILEPTIC FIT INTERVENES TO STOP ROBBERY

Capricious Fate Steps In to Thwart Well-Laid Plans of Bandits.

Houston, Texas.—Choosing an epileptic fit as her weapon, capricious fate intervened to prevent a robbery and perhaps save a life at the Citizens State bank.

In the silent after-midnight darkness three men, revolvers drawn and black masks ready to hand, squatted beneath a counter of the bank. They were listening. In a moment they intended to crawl on top of the big vault, there to wait for daylight and the coming of the first employee.

Their hearts beat fast and hard with excitement; and, as they crouched, one of the trio suddenly gave a loud gasp. The other two, surprised and infuriated, turned on him with snarls and muttered curses. But he paid no attention. He had dropped his gun and mask, and was writhing and jerking on the floor. The whites of his eyes shone strangely in the gloom.

Become Alarmed.

His two companions became alarmed. In vain they shook and pummeled him; he seemed unaware of their presence. And then cold terror made their stomachs quake. What had seized him in the deep blackness? Their sense of guilt made every sound from the stricken man seem thunderous and horrible; and in another moment they leaped up, and leaving him there, fled out through the window by which they had entered.

This was the story told to city detectives and Sheriff Binford by William H. Cox, twenty-four, who was found unconscious beneath the counter by L. B. Thompson, cashier of the bank, at 7 a. m. Monday.

On seeing the revolver and mask beside the prostrate man, Thompson telephoned to the police. They took Cox to headquarters, where he remained in a semi-conscious condition for several hours. When he recovered he returned to the bank with Sheriff Binford and detectives Arch Spradley, George Andrews and Tom Bass, and explained to them just how he and his companions had planned to stage a hold-up. He was bitter because they had run away and left him.

An Ironical Joke.

Before entering the bank they cut the telephone wire, he said.

Then they worked out their campaign. They decided to get on top of the vault, which was about nine feet high, and where, if they lay flat, they would be invisible to anyone entering the bank. They figured that the first act of the first employee to arrive would be to open the vault; and then it would be easy to reach over the edge and cover him with their weapons.

But as they were about to scramble up, fate and Cox's nerves played them an ironical joke.

According to Sheriff Binford, Cox said he estimated his share of the haul would be $20,000, and that he intended to bury it. He declared he was a carpenter by trade, and recently had returned here from Los Angeles.

The sheriff and detectives called on Cox's mother, who lives near the Yale street road, and who, they said, confirmed his statement that he was subject to epileptic fits. A charge of burglary was filed against him in Justice Campbell Overstreet's court.

New Explanation for Disasters on Ocean

In explanation of collisions at sea it is said to be a scientific fact that a very large liner, moving through shallow water will attract small craft toward her. This theory was first put forward when the White Star liner Olympic collided with the British destroyer Hawk, whose captain stated on oath that his vessel was sucked toward the big liner and refused to answer her helm at all. He was laughed at then, but not so long afterward the ill-fated Titanic started on her maiden voyage. As she steamed down Southampton docks the American liner New York, an eleven-thousand-ton ship, began to get uneasy at her berth alongside the quay. Presently her stout mooring ropes snapped, one after another, and she started to move out toward the White Star ship. The Titanic was immediately stopped, while tugs got hold of the New York and towed her back into safety. During the war there was another proof of the theory, this time by the Olympic again. A German submarine sided up to her and was getting ready to torpedo her, when the suction drew the U-boat close up under the liner's stern, and the blades of her great propeller ripped open the submarine from stem to stern.

of the old "saws" regarding weather are reliable and based on common-sense investigation. As a weather expert he commended an old saying to the effect that the glow of dawn high in the sky denotes wind, and a low dawn fair weather. He bade us believe that soft-looking, delicate clouds mean wind-fair weather, and hard, ragged ones wind. Mist on a hilltop means rain and wind if it stays long or comes down—fine weather if it rises and disperses. Rain is due when distant objects look near as on what is called a good hearing day. And rain is foretold by pigs carrying straws to sties. The pig as a prophet appears in an old riddle: Question: Why is a storm to follow presently when a company of hogges runne crying home? Answer: A hog is most dull and of a melancholy nature; and so by reason doth foretell the rains that cometh. In time of rains, most cattell doe prick up their ears; as for example an ass will, when he perceiveth a storme of rains or hail doth follow.

A Speeder

The three small sons of a business man were discussing what they would do if they had a million dollars. The eldest, aged fourteen, said: "I would buy a steam yacht and sail for Palm Beach."

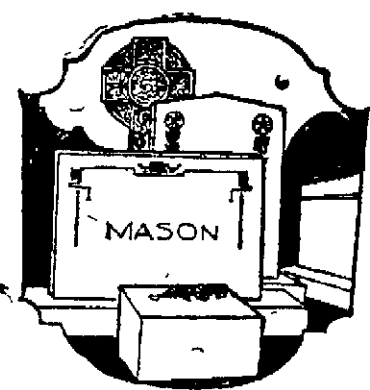

The second, aged twelve, would spend it, he said, in travel abroad, seeing the world.

Ten-year-old Ralph, who had not yet spoken, sniffed contemptuously. "Humph!" he said, "I would buy an automobile and spend the rest in sleep."

Story of Elgin

We might use the glamorous words of childhood's fairy tales, "Long ago and far away," to tell the tale of Elgin cathedral, whose seven hundredth birthday was celebrated last August 5 and 6. So long ago as the twilight time of the early Middle Ages, so far away as Rome, must we go for the beginnings of the story of this holy old pile, whose influence has been casting its spell upon the lives of the dwellers in the old province of Moray from that far-off time to the present. There is an old tradition that the Culdees founded the church to begin with, just as they did that of Birnie. In any case, the site was already hallowed by many sacred associations, when Bishop Andrew Moray, scion of the powerful house of De Moravia, moved the Cathedral of Spynie to the Church of Holy Trinity in Elgin.

Geese and Pillows

An idea of the number of geese that are plucked to supply feathers for pillows may be gained from the fact that the feathers on 30,000 geese were used for the pillows of a hotel recently opened.

Early "Razors"

In the days before the steel razor came into use, shaving the beard was accomplished by the use of flint, shells or bones, which were ground so as to give them a keen, sharp edge.

National Guard Is Flourishing

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 29.—That military training is steadily gaining in popularity throughout the country is shown by the large increase in National Guard enlistments during the fiscal year which closed in July. For the entire United States the increase amounted to about 25,000, of which more than 2,000 was made by the New York National Guard, bringing the total strength of that organization to 22,296.

Major General C. W. Berry, ranking officer of the New York National Guard, feels that the National Guard of the country was never in a more flourishing condition than at present. With reference to the troops under his command, he gives much credit for this favorable state of affairs to the loyalty and unselfish efforts of his officers and the patriotic instincts of the men.

"The thoughts and actions of virtually all Americans," said General Berry, "are governed by natural patriotic impulses, and in the case of the youth of the country, these natural impulses have been the main influence in their enlistment. But, besides the desire to do their bit for their country by joining the military establishment, these young men, active physically and alert mentally, have felt the sway of other factors leading them towards the National Guard."

General Berry then expressed the belief that the increased National Guard enlistments were due in part to the wide-spread propaganda of the past few years urging physical culture as one of the greatest health mediums. He pointed out that few, if any organizations were better equipped for this purpose than those of the National Guard, with their armories offering not only military and social features, but athletic inducements as well. Besides these factors, it was explained by General Berry that the step recently taken by the state of New York in offering its National Guardsmen the opportunity to acquire insurance, under the group plan of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has been instrumental in decreasing the popularity of the Guard, for under this program both enlisted men and officers may obtain insurance protection for their families at low cost, without medical examination and with no red tape or occupational restrictions.

"This alone," said General Berry, "must be playing no small part in enhancing the desire of young men to enter state military service, wherever such insurance has been provided."

Among the athletic activities of the New York National Guard are base ball, foot ball, basketball, polo matches, boxing bouts, limited strictly to members of the Guard and indoor meets, as well as purely military competitions, which rank high in the regard of the Guardsmen.

"Proof of the cake is in the eating," said General Berry, "and when it is realized that fully ninety per cent of the New York National Guard spent two weeks in camp this year, a gain of two per cent over 1923, there seems little doubt that the young men of the New York National Guard are taking their military training seriously and that their interest has shown no abatement."

Starting his business career at seventeen as a clerk on the West Shore Railroad, in Jersey City, N. Y., James S. McCulloch, of Rye, N. Y., at fifty-six, has been elected president of the New York Telephone Company, the largest of the Bell System, merged in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Unveil Monument To Army Flyers

American 'Round-the-World Aviators Complete 28,000 Mile Flight and are Honored by Monument at Seattle.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 29.—Honoring America's aviators, first to fly across the Pacific and circumnavigate the globe by air, a monument was to be unveiled this afternoon at Sand Point Aviation Field, where on Sunday the three "air Magellans" completed their 28,000 mile flight around the world.

Reunited with Major Frederick L. Martin, original commander of the air venture, who was forced out of the "round-the-world" derby by misfortune in Alaska, Lieutenant Lowell Smith, Lieutenant Erik Nelson and Lieutenant Leigh Wade participated in the ceremonies today as the last act of their mastery of the air.

The three flyers were glad their task was over. Worn by the privations of the trip, wearied by the unending round of welcome accorded them on their flight across the United States and a bit unnerved now that their success is complete, the birds were anxious today to rest. "We are glad to be back and glad to have been able to take part in the flight," they said in unison, and let it go at that.

"It is a remarkable achievement," said Major Martin. "My regret that I was unable to continue the flight with the pioneers gives me emotions I cannot express in words."

The flyers were guests at a public luncheon today. They will rest here for perhaps two weeks. Then they will return the three giant Douglas air cruisers to San Diego, where air experts will study the effects of the trip on the machines.

Classification Of New Voters

Election Law Requirements as to Literacy and Tests Explained—Those Who Are and Are Not New Voters.

The 1923 amended election law as it pertains to the literacy requirements for all new voters, places full and sole responsibility upon the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York, and through them upon the school authorities of the state for the issuance of certificates of literacy. Commissioner of Education Frank P. Graves reminds city, village and district superintendents of schools in a letter sent today.

He points out in his letter that under the regulations adopted by the Board of Regents certificates of literacy may be issued to the following:

- (1) to all persons who have successfully completed the work prescribed for the sixth grade of the public schools or the equivalent elsewhere;
- (2) to all persons who have not completed the work of the sixth grade, after successfully passing the literacy test furnished by the State Department of Education.

The amended election law provides, however, that any person may present as evidence of literacy to election officials a diploma or certificate showing that the new voter has been graduated from an eighth grade elementary school or school of higher grade in which English was the language of instruction.

"We are responsible and should employ every possible means to see that the new voters are advised of the new legal requirements for voting," the commissioner states. "To this end I herewith urge you to assist to the fullest extent in giving frequent and adequate publicity in your local communities to the times and places for issuing certificates of literacy."

To this end he seeks the cooperation of all principals and teachers, clergymen, newspaper, civic clubs and agencies, local election authorities and others.

"New York is the only state in the union that places the responsibility upon the schools for determining the literacy of new voters," the letter states. "Our examination is unique in that it is a combined reading-writing test in which comprehension and understanding are the standards adopted. As this is a presidential year, it is likely that more new voters than usual will apply for certificates of literacy."

New voters, according to the election law, are: (1) all men and women born in the United States who become qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922; (2) all men and women of foreign birth who become qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922; (3) all persons who have previously voted in one or more other states, but who became qualified to vote in New York state after January 1, 1922.

The following persons are not new voters: (1) men, both of native and foreign birth, who have not yet voted, but who were qualified to vote before January 1, 1922; (2) women, both of native and foreign birth, who have not yet voted; but who were qualified to vote before January 1, 1922; (3) illiterate men and women who were qualified to vote and have actually voted in New York state before January 1, 1922; (4) World War veterans who took out their final citizenship papers, under the special act of congress of July 19, 1919, before January 1, 1922; (5) a woman of foreign birth whose husband became naturalized before January 1, 1922.

DAVIS BACKS AND FILLS.

Neither the Navy officials nor the Bureau of the Budget is subject to censure for its controversy over allotments for the support of the Navy in the budget for the fiscal year 1926. The Director of the Budget is confronted with a condition that he cannot avoid. From the most reliable sources he has an estimate of the probable revenues of the Government for the year beginning July 1, 1925. He must allot that revenue among the various government activities according to the relative importance of their needs. Inasmuch as the estimates by bureaus and department chiefs to the Director of the Budget are hundreds of millions of dollars in excess of the estimated revenue, it follows that drastic cuts must be made if the budget law is to be upheld and a deficit avoided.

Candidate Davis tries to make political capital out of the situation both going and coming. He first criticizes the Republican Administration for alleged extravagance, and then criticizes it for not living up to the 5-5-3 naval ratio which he says was established by the Washington treaty. (As a matter of fact that treaty established no naval ratio at all, except as to capital ships.) Davis finds fault with the Republicans for spending too much money, and then finds fault with them for not spending enough. It is a typical instance of Democratic campaign inconsistency.

In this connection, Mr. Davis and the rest of us may well recall that the income tax rates of the present law were written by Senator Simmons, the leading Democrat on the Finance Committee of the Upper House of Congress. He claims their authorship and no one denies it. They are law today only because the Democratic-radical coalition commanded sufficient votes to put them through. The revenue derived under those rates will be considerably lower than the revenue anticipated under the rates advocated by Secretary Mellon and endorsed by President Coolidge. The Republican rates would have reduced surtaxes to a point where capital now tied up in tax-exempt securities would have been induced to enter the productive field where it could be taxed. The revenues of the treasury would have been increased, not by further contributions from people of moderate means, but from accumulations of wealth which have not heretofore paid their just share of the cost of government.

The fact that there is not enough revenue to modernize all of our battle fleet is directly due to the rejection by Mr. Davis's party of the scientific tax program prepared by Mr. Mellon, and the substitution of another program primarily designed to win votes in a political campaign. The great bulk of the taxpayers save no money through enforced economy in the Navy. The saving accrues to those men of wealth who, under our present surtax rates, still keep their capital invested in tax-exempt securities.

"I trust a bill less political and more truly economic may be passed at the next session of Congress," said President Coolidge when he reluctantly signed the present law. "To that end I shall bend all my energies." If Mr. Davis wants to see more money spent on the Navy he should add his energies to those of Mr. Coolidge toward securing the enactment of a well-balanced tax law that will bring in the maximum of revenue with the minimum of burden to all. When that time comes, and not until then, will the finances of the Government be established on a basis equally just to the taxpayers and to the activities which are included in efficient government.

There is a three-cornered fight in Kansas also. William Allen White, the celebrated editor, having entered the race for Governor on an anti-Ku Klux platform. Governor Davis, who seeks re-election by the Democrats, is also anti-Ku-Klux and his party in convention has denounced the Klan by name; but presumably Editor White is too good a Republican to vote the Democratic ticket, and he finds himself unable to vote the Republican ticket this time because, as he says, "Ben" Paulen, the regular Republican candidate, has "practically allied the Republican party in Kansas with the Ku Klux Klan." So Mr. White decided to save Kansas from both the Ku Klux and the Democrats by running for Governor himself. Obviously this is a rather curious solution of the problem, for ordinarily to divide the Republican vote is merely to render Democratic victory an easy matter. But possibly the conditions are unusual and Mr. White hopes to divide the Democratic vote as well.

That Body of Yours

THE SPRING IN YOUR STEP.

You have heard someone jokingly remark that all the use a mutual acquaintance had for his head was that it furnished a place to hang his hat.

I want to say something about the feet, your other extremity, but I do not say it jokingly.

"All some folks think their feet are for is to support the body when they stand."

Such a thing as comparing them with such organs as the lungs, or heart, seems ridiculous to them.

And yet have in your feet organs that can mean so much to you that your health, your life's happiness, can be lost by forgetting the importance of the feet.

A properly built foot has an arch that not only supports your body, but does other important things for you.

As you walk the arch with its supporting muscles takes care of every step you make, so that when your foot strikes the ground it is just like the springs of a motor car. The front and back part of the foot touch the ground, but the weight of your body is between them on this arched spring.

This means that no jar goes up to the knees, to the spine, or to the brain, as in the case where the foot is flat. This means freedom from headaches and the countless number of irritations from an ordinary walk. The constant jarring of the spinal cord and brain means not only headaches, but complete fatigue, with just an ordinary amount of walking during the day.

Many cases of nervousness, nervous exhaustion, irritable temper, hysteria and neurasthenia, have as their exciting cause, flat, painful feet.

Arches that not only support you but actually drive you forward are the kind you should have.

I say drive you forward because the arches may be compared to the actual bow that was used in the old days by the Indians in warfare. The curved or arched part of the foot may be compared to the curved or arched part of the bow.

The string of the bow or arch of your foot is formed by ligaments which stretch across the sole of the foot from the two bones, which touch the ground when you stand. The bones themselves are held in this arched position by muscles in the lower part of the leg.

Thus a good foot when it strikes the ground not only takes the jar off the brain and body, but actually drives or shoots the body upward and forward by this spring like bow in your foot.

SAUGERTIES GIRL STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

In Attempting to Cross Partition Street, Saugerties, Saturday Afternoon.

Miss Ruth Washburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Washburn of Barclay Heights, was knocked down in front of the Reed & Reed department store, Saugerties, and narrowly escaped being crushed to death under the wheels of an automobile driven by A. G. Searing of Detroit. Miss Washburn was taken into the Reed store and after an examination by Dr. B. W. Gifford of Saugerties, was taken to the Beer's Sanitarium at Saugerties. It was found that no bones were broken and only slight bruises about the head were sustained. Miss Washburn was removed to the Kingston City Hospital Sunday and is resting as comfortably as can be expected.

SEPT. 28, 1924—Miss Ada Delamater and Benjamin Hunt, white married at home of bride in Catskill. Mrs. Rebecca R. Fitch died at The Huntington.

SEPT. 29, 1924—Italian who robbed Orson C. Longyear at Stony Hollow, made confession of crime. Miss Ethel May Short and George M. Ingram married at Rondout Presbyterian Church.

SEPT. 28, 1924—Miss Nellie Harrison and Michael Mauer of South Rondout married at West Hoboken. Thomas Doyle, farm hand employed by Miss Grace Roberts at Highland, lost his right hand while operating a threshing machine.

SEPT. 29, 1924—A. Strach, a brickyard laborer at East Kingston, while feeding his pigs dropped his summer savings amounting to $550 in the pig pen and before he discovered the loss the money had been eaten by the pigs. Charles H. Buntin of North Front street died at Kingston City Hospital.

Good Word for Birds

Many birds believed pests are actually of help to the farmer, according to a recent survey, which claims that thousands are ruthlessly slaughtered in belief that they are grain or fruit eaters when they really live upon insects. English sparrows feed upon the seventeen-year locust, and other insects, and should be protected. Contrary to belief, the crow's good traits outnumber his bad habits, and all shore birds are beneficial.—Exchange.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

OF BIG IMPORTANCE TO DESTROY "DROPS"

Experiments conducted at the federal peach pest laboratory at Fort Valley, Georgia, show most strikingly the importance of the prompt destruction of all small infested peaches when they fall, says E. H. Rawl, associate extension horticulturist at Clemson college.

Almost all of the small peaches that are punctured by the curculio fall to the ground within a few weeks after the curculios or "shucks" have been pushed off and these "drops" are badly infested with curculio worms, about 75 to 90 per cent of the "drops" containing one or more larva of worms. In these "drops" the larvae remain, develop and then emerge and enter the ground for pupation. Within the first few days that the larva is in the soil it is busy preparing a cell within about three inches of the surface, in which it undergoes the transformation and later emerges as an adult beetle, and thus giving rise to the second generation that in turn lays eggs and causes "wormy" peaches at harvest time.

It is the picking up and destruction of the "drops" that prevents a heavy infestation at harvest time. These small infested peaches should be picked up and buried at least 24 inches deep. Dig a trench in which they may be dumped and then cover them with 24 inches of soil and pack firmly. It is usually necessary to make two or three gatherings. Special care should be taken to see that all the very small shriveled peaches be gathered, for they are almost always infested, the larger ones being less likely to contain worms.

In one of these experiments 2½ bushels of "drops" which had been picked up were placed in a screen wire container and watched carefully. After a few weeks 13,000 larvae (worms) emerged from these 2½ bushels of infested peaches. This number would have produced enough second brood curculios to heavily infest 100,000 trees. These significant experimental data point out the real importance of using these preventive control measures in the general orchard program of work.

Tent Caterpillar Quite

Difficult to Eradicate

Tent caterpillars breed on wild cherry and these trees are seldom cut and burned as they should be. The best fruit campaign any township could start would be an organized hunt for every wild cherry bush or tree. If these can be destroyed the caterpillar will be put out of business. Scorching or burning is the time-honored process. Before the modern gasoline torch was invented we took a long pole, wound rags at one end, poured on kerosene, set it ablaze and held it up against the nest. That is effective, but dangerous to use near buildings. We do not believe the scorching is as damaging as the insects are, remarks the Rural New Yorker. The best way to kill these insects, aside from scorching or hand picking, is to spray the trees with a solution of arsenic in water at about the strength used in fighting the codling worm. We use 8 pounds of the arsenic paste to 50 gallons of water. In most seasons the usual spraying for the worm will kill most of the caterpillars. The season's blooming has been delayed, while the insects are about on time, so that they may do considerable damage before the time for the ordinary spray. It is very easy to overlook the insects, as they are inconspicuous at first.

Many Enemies of Field

Mice Found on Any Farm

In making plans for the permanent control of field mice, a protective sentiment should be fostered toward such of their natural enemies as are not injurious to the interests of man, for mice form an important item of the diet of many of our predatory birds, mammals, and larger snakes. Whenever there is an abnormal increase in the number of mice, their enemies usually tend to increase correspondingly and thus exercise a natural control over them.

The birds which most commonly feed upon field mice are owls, hawks, shrikes, cranes, herons, ibises, gulls, crows, magpies and road-runners. Among their mammal enemies, which are for the most part economically beneficial to the interests of man, may be mentioned foxes, badgers, raccoons, opossums, skunks, mink, martens, weasels and shrews. Their enemies among the larger snakes include kingsnakes, bullsnakes, and blacksnakes.

Care for Injured Tree

Trees slightly damaged by field mice will usually soon recover if the injured parts are completely covered by mounding up soil around the bases or if paint is used to prevent the wounds from drying out. When the injury is severe, bridge-grafting should be resorted to. Following the severe mouse epidemic of 1919-20 in Massachusetts, specialists of the State Agricultural college successfully directed the work of bridge-grafting 13,000 trees, valued at $30,000.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.

The first meeting of the Sons of Temperance was held in New York eighty-two years ago today, when the international order of teetotalers was launched. Later on the temperance movement was organized into five grand divisions,—viz: One for the U. S. and Canada, one for Great Britain and Ireland, two for Australia and one for New Zealand. At one time in the pre-Volstead days the organization had over 4,000,000 names on its rolls. The last convention for North America was held in Canada. The fundamental principle of the society was, of course, total abstinence from all forms of intoxicating liquors. Temperance societies originated in America in the early part of the 19th century, and the first national society was organized in 1826, and the first convention met in Philadelphia in 1833.

MICHAELMAS DAY.

Michaelmas Day, the 29th of September, properly named the day of St. Michael and All Angels, is a great festival of the Roman Church, and also observed as a feast by the Church of England. In England it is one of the four quarterly terms or quarter days, on which rents are paid, and in that and other divisions of the United Kingdom as well as perhaps in other countries, it is the day on which burial magistrates and councils are re-elected. The only other remarkable thing connected with the day is a widely prevalent custom of marking it with a goose at dinner. Michael is regarded by the Christian world as chief of the angels, or archangel (Archangel, the famous Russian sea-port is named after St. Michael). The saint is mentioned five times in scripture, and always in a war-like character,—namely—Thrice by Daniel as fighting for the Jewish Church against Persia, once by St. Jude as fighting with the devil about the body of Moses, and once by St. John as fighting at the head of his angelic troops against the dragon and his host.

MRS. MCKAY.

In the beginning of June, 1781, the British garrison at Augusta, Georgia, capitulated to the American forces under Gen. Pickens and Col. Lee, of the parol legion. Col. Grierson, who was obnoxious to the Americans on account of his barbarities, was shot down by an unknown hand after he was a prisoner. A reward of one hundred guineas failed to reveal the offender. Col. Brown, the British commander, expecting the same fate and conscious that he deserved it, from his unrelenting and vindictive disposition toward the Americans, was furnished with a guard, although he had hanged thirteen American prisoners and had given others into the hands of the Indians to be tortured. On his way to Savannah he passed through the settlements where he had burned a number of houses, and hung some of the relatives of the inhabitants. At Silverbluff, a Mrs. McKay obtained leave of the American officer commanding the escort to speak to him. She addressed him as follows: "Colonel Brown, in the last days of your prosperity I visited your camp, and on my knees supplicated for the life of my only son but you were deaf to my entreaties, and hanged my boy, a beardless youth, before my face. I saw him scalped by the savages under your immediate command, and for no better reason than that his name was McKay. As you are now a prisoner to the leaders of my country, for the present I lay aside all thoughts of revenge, but when you resume your sword I shall go five hundred miles to demand satisfaction at the point of it for the murder of my son."

Florida's Long Coast Line

Florida has a longer coast line than any other state. Its length is almost twelve hundred miles, more than half the distance between Chicago and San Francisco. California is second in this respect, with more than one thousand miles of coast line. Some authorities are inclined to give the preference to California, there being so little difference between the two lengths.

The Sin of Lying

The sin of telling a lie is not great. When a man returns from fishing, it is not a very serious matter if he adds a fish or two to his string; every one has fished, and knows the probability, so no one is harmed. . . . The real sin of telling lies is the waste of time; it isn't the shortest, easiest or best way.

Many cases of chronic trouble are advised by surgeons to undergo some serious operation when proper treatment might have cured the trouble. The craze for surgery doctors do not ever try to cure with treatment, for they try to reach every case with the knife. The papers have reports of deaths from surgery most every day and even if one recovers from the operation nearly all cases find the surgery failed to cure, and any one advised to have an operation, should try every other method, to obtain a cure.

RELIEF WITHOUT SURGERY

A young lady was supposed to be suffering from gall stones, and one surgeon claimed it was appendicitis. Four doctors, two of whom were prominent surgeons, had advised this patient that an operation was absolutely necessary. A thorough examination proved it was not a case of gall stones nor appendicitis, but one of obstruction of the bile ducts from catarrhal inflammation and impaction of the gall bladder. Treatment was given immediately which removed the obstruction and reduced the inflammation and in a few days the patient was entirely relieved of all suffering and has since made a complete recovery.

TO RESTORE A HEALTHY STOMACH WILL HELP MANY OTHER DISEASES.

In nine-tenths of the ailments there is some weakness of the stomach and poor assimilation of foods that has caused the more serious disturbance. If you have already developed other disease conditions such as headache, recurring vomiting, spells, gall stones, jaundice or the more distressing disorders of malnutrition, neuritis, neurasthenia, rheumatism or heart weakness, you should at once begin a course of treatment to build up digestive and assimilative functions and the results from such treatment is often astonishing.

If you are suffering from any chronic or obscure disease, you should call to see the doctor, for there will be no charge unless you want treatment.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS

The Bees of Napoleon.

Since so many Napoleonic decorations and fashion details have been borrowed for present-day styles, something of the origin of the bees insignia which was Napoleon's may be of interest. History records also that green was the dominant color of the Napoleonic era.

When Napoleon had the crown of France assured for himself, he was anxious to have a royal emblem older than the Fleur de Lys of the hated Bourbons which the revolution deprived of their power. Some would-be archaeologist suggested the harness scales of King Childeric. They were promptly taken for bees and used on the coronation robe and other belongings of Napoleon. The green ground, known at the present as green empire, is supposed to have been the original Merovingian color.

Since the Pharaohs of ancient Egypt with their scarabs signifying eternity, Napoleon was the first ruler who had chosen a mere "bug" for royal emblem. His choice of the bee was the result of a curious misunderstanding.

When the tomb of Childeric, one of the earliest kings of France, was opened in 1653, several handfuls of small ornaments were found, made of purest gold in a shape which had a remote resemblance to a bee, if sufficient imagination was brought into play. The so-called wings were inlaid with red stone. These ornaments, called fleurons, in French, served as scales to decorate the harness of the war horse of that early king.

JENNY'S TAFFETA AND LEOPARD FROCK

(By Eleanor Gunn)

Perish all thought that the use of fur has any connection whatever with keeping one warm. Fur is a trimming—necessary to smartness, and quite unconcerned with climatic conditions.

Jenny created the chic frock sketched in her own salon on the Champs Elysees and has elected to do the unusual this season by using black taffeta at a time when satin is so favored. It is tres chic, of course, banded with leopard and trimmed with tiny braid which emphasizes the saucy lines of the full tunic.

That skirts have climbed to 18 inches from the floor is curious, since so short a time has elapsed since they were short. It is, of course, because cutting off the inches, like cutting off the hair, seems to simultaneously clip years from a woman's appearance. For all the talk of the entrance of a stricter formality in the mode, women insist on retaining every feature which makes for youth.

Choker collars are not a rumor, but a fact. They are confined, fortunately, to street costumes, and are frequently convertible, but to have something wound about one's throat is to be versed in what is the latest in fashion.

More and more women are choosing brown shoes, either alligator, suede and leather combinations, or plain opera pumps in tan leather, worn, of course, with light hosiery, and brown satin slippers are worn instead of black ones.

Brown accessories, hats, shoes, and trappings are in harmony with the countryside, many of the russets and reds being also reflected.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MONKEY ZOOLAND

First of all Billie Brownie called upon the Spider Monkey. He was very tame and came rushing down from the high bar in his cage upon which he had been swinging and spoke to Billie and let Billie pet him.

"Why were you named Spider Monkey?" Billie asked.

"It is the family name," said Spider Monkey, "and so I naturally have the name too, as I belong to the family."

"But," said Billie Brownie, "you don't eat spiders, do you? Of course I can see that you are a monkey."

"Oh," said the Spider Monkey, "you would like to know why the family has been given the name of Spiders Monkey?"

"That is just what I would like to know," said Billie Brownie.

"Then I will tell you," said the Spider Monkey.

"You see," he said, "that I am black in color and I look like a spider because I have such very long arms and legs. That is why the family has been given the name of Spider Monkey."

"We are monkeys and yet the first one to give us this name said:

"Not only are they monkeys, but they look something the way spiders do with their long arms and legs. Let us call them Spider Monkeys."

"So they did. And this is the name we have always had."

The Spider Monkey did some tricks for Billie Brownie and then Billie called on the White-Handed Gibbon, also a member of the monkey family.

The White-Handed Gibbon showed Billie how nicely he walked upon his two feet without using his hands at all, and he came and sat down with his back to Billie so Billie would scratch his back.

"I really think," said Billie, "you should have been named Fine-Walker-White-Handed Gibbon, but perhaps that is too long a name. Anyway you have your name now and I suppose you had better stick to it."

"Besides I was not around when you were being named."

Then Billie went to call on Fanny, an old lady chimpanzee. She had grown quite old since Billie had last seen her, and she looked as though she felt a little sad that she was old and hadn't the strength she used to have.

"I like to rest most of the time, Billie," she said. "And I find myself becoming cross at times and quite ill-pleased with my neighbors."

"But I try not to let it get the better of me for I don't want to be considered a crank."

Billie was very polite and kind to her so that she felt happier after Billie's visit.

Then he called on some of the other monkeys, who bowed when the keeper told them to bow, and such fine, society bows as they made. They shrugged their shoulders, too, and several of them made little curtsies.

The black monkeys looked tired and did not have much to say. They had been swinging and leaping and fooling with each other and were tired now. Their eyes looked tired and they drooped their eyelids as though very soon they would go to sleep.

But they opened their eyes and looked at Billie Brownie and said:

"Come again and see us when we are not quite so sleepy."

And Billie Brownie promised that he would do this.

He went around and shook hands with many of the monkeys and also listened to the baboons, who were making a great deal of noise, barking so that they sounded almost more like dogs than like members of the monkey family.

He saw the Mandrill with his blue and red face and his blue and red back.

He also saw a very young mandrill, who was just beginning to show signs of the color he would have when he was older and of the ridges on his face.

The young mandrill bowed and shook hands with Billie Brownie, who said as he went home:

"Well, I had a very cordial reception in Monkey Zooland today."

Where He Was Wounded

The inquisitive old lady was bending over the bed of a wounded soldier whose head was swathed with cotton and linen.

"Where you wounded in the head, my boy?" she asked.

"No," replied a faint voice. "I was shot in the foot and the bandage has slipped up."

HELPFUL HINTS

During the summer months try to make the housework as light as possible for yourself and family. If even the tiny people are taught to care for their own belongings, hang up wraps and caps and put away toys it will save the housemother many steps.

If possible, and not adding too much distance from the kitchen range, have the meals on a porch, using paper napkins, oil-cloth tablecloth or dollies, and thus save the family linen as well as yourself.

Mothers often remark: "It is easier to do things myself than to see that the children do them." If no injustice were done to herself, it is hardly fair that a child should be untrained in usefulness. It takes effort to teach anything even to a small puppy; one has to go over and over the lessons, but we all know it is quite worth while, for training isn't for the day, but for the life.

Save a few minutes in every piece of work possible; wash the potatoes with one of the magic mits that will take off nearly all of the skin and then boil a kettleful at a time. Serve them hot for dinner, fried for supper or for potato salad.

Put all dishes in soak as soon as used. If possible, get one of the large round dish drainers with a centerpiece to hold the flat silver. When the dishes are washed they may be scalded in this drainer, set into a pan and left to dry in the sink, needing no wiping, except the cutlery.

Desserts of gelatin are wholesome, easy to digest and may be prepared overnight or early in the morning and placed on ice. Such foods are much more wholesome than rich pies and puddings, and very little work to prepare.

An hour saved here and there in housekeeping may be used for reading, rest or in doing anything one loves to do, but never takes the time for. Every mother owes it to herself and the welfare of her family to keep well and happy.

English Lark an Artist

Lovers of the wonderful English lark, which rises straight up from the earth and warbles so melodiously until it eludes the eye on account of its altitude, say the lark sings according to book—not merely unpreparedly art. Opening with a prelude, vivace crescendo, this carries the sonnet to his airy watch tower. Impatience during the ascent is the ruling idea. Then the song becomes moderate, broken into short phrases, each repeated several times, making a fantasia. While hovering, head to wind, the ardent gives way to self-satisfied calm. And as the singer comes down so, by gradations, his melody sinks. Some say they have made out that the number of the notes accords exactly with the beating of the wings.

Unprogressive Poets

"Mexico," says an American who has spent much time in that distracted country, "honors her poets, but she esteems the patriot above the poet and would like her authors to draw their images from the life around them rather than from conventional literature."

"Our poets are good writers," a Mexican official once assured me, "but they ever speak of nightingales and larks, gazelles and hynclnths."

"Yes?" I murmured questioningly.

"Without venturing," continued the Mexican, in a reproachful voice, "to give place in their verses to the cull-lacoe or to the zentzontli or to the cocomitl or to the yoloxochitl."

Didn't Want the Job

The children had to make applications for the position in writing.

Good and Bad Luck

To balance "unlucky" superstitions there are many "lucky" ones. If, when dressing, one accidentally gets on a garment inside out, an unexpected gift will shortly arrive. To carry about a pin with a hole in it is to secure on self against misfortune, and if swallows are permitted to build near a house, the owner need not trouble to take out a fire insurance policy, for fire will never attack a dwelling thus protected.

Aspiration

When you are aspiring to the highest place it is honorable to reach the second or even the third rank.

MASTER FORGER'S TRICKS EXPOSED

The "Perfect Forgery" Always Has a Weak Spot That Leads to Penman's Downfall.

NATIONWIDE DRAGNET OUT

Bankers Working Together to Catch Crooks Who Cause Losses of $150,000,000 With Bad Checks Yearly.

A bogus check scheme that was so original, sound and business-like that it became known in detective circles as "the one perfect forgery," but finally, like all of them, led to its own inventor being trapped, is described by Paul A. Lewis, Jr., in the American Bankers Association Journal. The article which says forgeries cost the banks and business concerns at least $150,000,000 a year, deals with the ways of forgers and the relentless warfare being conducted against them by the bankers.

"Crime does not pay," Mr. Lewis says. "Soon the law reaches out and seizes the misguided operator who thinks he can get away with it. For one of the peculiar things about the forger is that, while he may devise a clever scheme that brings a rich return on its initial trial, he continues to work it until caught."

"Fortunately, there appears to be a weak spot in the best laid scheme. And just as soon as this weak spot is uncovered, it is broadcast to all the banks in the land. So the banks, informed as to the method of approach that the forger will make, and the little peculiarities of the job, are on the alert to nab him when he makes his next reappearance."

The King of Forgers
The "master forger" is William Hamilton Harkins, probably the most dangerous operator known to the banking world. Several times in the tolls of the law, Harkins has managed to escape. The daring "king" of the forgers made a confession that he had defrauded banks of more than $300,000 during the years of his career.

"His scheme follows a certain set pattern. The key to Harkins' plan is obtaining a blank check from the checkbook of a well known firm. Recently Harkins sauntered into the office of a granite dealer. He ordered a monument and tendered a check for a substantial part of the memorial. He requested the proprietor of the store to permit him to dash off a letter to his folks at home. Seizing a propitious moment, Harkins spotted his checkbook, noted the exact balance, tore out a sheet of checks and disappeared."

"Reproducing the proprietor's signature, Harkins drew up a sizeable check. On the reverse side he inscribed his alias as the payee and then added after "O. K." the facsimile of the depositor's signature. This acted as an identification endorsement, so when he presented the check at the bank it was readily cashed.

The Weak Spot
"The weak spot in Harkins' scheme is the identification endorsement. If the teller, before cashing any check bearing this alleged endorsement, telephoned to the depositor and checked up on its issuance, the scheme would have short shrift."

Banks throughout the country have been put on guard against Harkins and his plan and it is believed he cannot operate long without again falling into the net. The scheme that was pronounced unbreakable was devised by a forger known as F. Mayer and centered around the certified check fraud, Mr. Lewis says, continuing:

"F. Mayer would open accounts with four or five banks in a sizeable city. The largest account ran around $5,000. By kitting checks back and forth between the several banks he would establish his identity with the tellers and become known as a man accustomed to deal in large figures."

"After conducting these preliminaries for a few weeks, Mayer would go to the bank where he had his largest account and ask that a certified check be issued to him for substantially all of the money remaining to his credit. From the genuine check he would make four or five duplicates."

"In turn, Mayer would visit the other banks, where he had established small accounts. Inasmuch as he had cashed checks for some time, Mayer generally had little trouble in getting the banks to honor the certified checks. If a teller took the precaution of calling the issuing bank on the telephone to inquire if it had made out such a certified check, he would gain confirmation."

The Forger Caught
"But even the 'perfect' forgery scheme cannot be worked with impunity. Mayer succeeded in defrauding Kansas City banks out of $27,000 and made his escape. A few months later he was walking down the streets of Los Angeles when a teller who had honored one of the bogus checks in the middle western city recognized him. Mayer took to his heels with the former teller in hot pursuit, and the criminal lost."

The losses sustained through forgeries by banks may be mainly attributed to the failure of the tellers to observe the rules against cashing checks for strangers or allowing depositors to draw on uncollected items. "A relentless, sustained hunt is conducted to apprehend the forgers. The new twists, the variations in the methods, the latest ruses used are followed by the detectives. The modes of operation are broadcast throughout the country," the article declares. "The American Bankers Association alone, through its Protective Division, spends more than $100,000 a year to check depredations against banks."

GRAVEYARD HAD ITS INCEPTION IN JOKE

Man's Jestful Proposal Carried Out by Companions.

On the great Warner ranch in San Diego county, Calif., a few miles from the hot springs resort, is a little cluster of seven graves. They are just off the frequently traveled road leading to Montezuma and San Felipe valleys, but are not visible from the road and very few of the residents of that section are aware of their existence. No fence surrounds them, and but for a few fragments of a single marble slab they would not be noticed by a pedestrian who might walk over them.

But in the origin of this little burying ground is a story of throbbing interest. The graves are on a knoll a few hundred feet back of the old Butterfield stage station in Buena Vista valley, one of the stopping places of what was the longest stage line in the world, extending from St. Louis to San Francisco, in operation before the Civil war.

Through the middle part of the little Buena Vista valley runs a cleavage with a line of large cottonwood trees, affording water and shade to some of the many thousand sleek cattle which range the big ranch, says the Los Angeles Times. The stage station, built of adobe, with wooden "lean-to" and porches, was not only patronized by cross-country travelers, but was also a resort for the prospectors who thronged that region in the early days, and the cattlemen who looked after the herds in the surrounding territory.

Saturday night always found a crowd of these rough-and-ready frontiersmen gathered at the station, where they spent the evening swapping stories, gambling, drinking and carousing generally.

On the Sunday morning following a particularly wild carousal, when all were partly stupefied from the night's orgy, some one remarked:

"Well, we done about everything there was to do last night, but if anybody can start anything new we will do it now."

Said another, stretching himself and yawning: "Well, the only thing I can think of that we did not do was to start a graveyard."

"That's right," said the first speaker. "We did not do that, but we'll do it right now, and you'll be the one we'll start it with."

The new idea was welcomed by all except the one who suggested it. A range rider produced a rope, and the victim was escorted to a large sycamore tree a few hundred feet from the house. The rope was thrown over a limb, and, as they thought, adjusted about the man's neck so as not to strangle him—for no one really intended to take his life. Then he was hauled up into the air, and with much hilarity the rest of the company went into the house to breakfast, leaving the unfortunate victim of their practical joke helplessly dangling.

Returning to the sycamore tree after breakfast to release their companion from his uncomfortable position, they found him dead. In their befuddled condition they had bungled in adjusting the rope, and he had been choked to death.

After they had cut the body down and it was evident life could not be restored, a consultation was held, and it was decided, without inquest or other official action, to bury the body. It was taken to the top of the knoll back of the stage station, and then and there the graveyard was started, as its first occupant had suggested.

Vegetable Sponge Edible

In Algeria an extensive industry has been developed in the cultivation of what are known as vegetable sponges. The chief market for the product is Paris, although specimens are not uncommon in the United States. They have come into extensive use for the toilet, the bathroom and various other domestic purposes.

Prior to maturity the fruit is edible, but when the stage of ripeness has been passed the fibrous matter becomes separated from the pulp and forms a tough, spongy mass. The material is prepared for the market by being bleached in a weak lime bath.—Grit.

Canada's Gold Production

Louis D. Huntoon, former professor of mining and metallurgy at Yale university, predicts that within a few years Canada will surpass the United States in gold production. He points out that since 1915 Canada's output has increased rapidly, while in the United States it has undergone a steady decline. Canada's gold production in 1923 was valued at $25,234,000, and he expresses the opinion that this year it will rise to $30,000,000.

His Chance

"Don't you think that if I had lived in the olden days I would have made a good knight?" asked the young man who had bored her for hours describing a cinema picture he had seen.

"I don't care so much what you would have made then," observed the girl, wearily, "but you might try to see what kind of a good night you can make now."

Ingenious Squirrel

At Epping, N. H., a squirrel was seen playing in a sugar maple tree near the schoolhouse, and a closer inspection revealed the fact that he had gnawed the under side of a limb and, hanging on his four feet, was sucking the sap that oozed out. He repeated this performance several times.

Realizing Ambitions

Every one possesses possibilities of realizing loftiest ambitions. Those who may achieve in every field the world has yet opened may today be working in some humble capacity but dreaming of the bright future they will realize.—Grit.

The Beaded Afternoon Dress Will Conceal Extra Pounds

Beaded dresses seem to have an ever-repeated popularity and there's a good reason for it. No type of dress is quite so becoming to the stout figure. The beads give the dress a heavy, snug-fitting appearance which tends to make the wearer seem slender. A straight, beaded dress is the stout woman's best choice for afternoon wear this fall.

This morning DeWitt was arraigned before Judge Harry E. Schirlick in police court charged with public intoxication. Judge Schirlick imposed a fine of $15 which was paid.

About 125 women are expected from out of town and all Kingstonians interested in the program are given a cordial invitation to attend the meetings.

In response to a telephone call that four men were fighting and causing terror by their actions along the Plank road across the Esopus creek bridge, Undersheriff Haulenbeck and Deputy Sheriffs Jocelyn and Ellsworth made a hasty trip by auto from the court house to the locality Sunday night. They failed to find the four men who it was said had been in an automobile or anyone who knew about any fighting, although the officers made a trip for some distance along the road.

Japan's Refusal Disturbs League

Grave International Situation May Follow Her Refusal To Accept League Of Nations Arbitration Protocol.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Geneva, Sept. 29.—Japan's refusal to accept the League of Nations arbitration protocol, a dispute which may lead to a grave international situation, remained an unbroken deadlock this evening. The sub-commission which met at 5 o'clock in an effort to smooth out the difficulties in the Anglo-Japanese view points, failed to reach a decision.

Leaders of the foremost powers attempted to persuade the Japanese not to vote against the arbitration protocol because one adverse vote would prevent its adoption and automatically prevent the conference from being summoned.

The league covenant's requirement for unanimity is threatening to smash the entire disarmament conference project.

Japan's original proposal was limited to a protocol amendment requiring an attempt at reconciliation after the world court at The Hague and given a decision upon an international issue. Now the Japanese are demanding definition of the term aggressor worded in such a manner as to exclude Japan from responsibility if war arises over the immigration issue.

Davis and Smith On Same Platform

Democratic Candidates to Speak at Madison Square Garden Thursday Night—Davis Going on Another Western Tour.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, Sept. 29.—John W. Davis will formally open his presidential drive in New York state Thursday night with a speech in Madison Square Garden, it was announced today at Davis's headquarters.

The Democratic nominee, making his first appearance in the historic hall since the night of his nomination, will share honors with Governor Al Smith of New York. Under the auspices of Tammany Hall, the two candidates will appear on the same platform and join in appealing for a united Democratic front in New York city.

Plans for the rally kept the Davis headquarters' staff busy today but the nominee remained in seclusion at his Locust Valley, L. I., home. He devoted most of the day to work on future speeches and announced he would continue to make the Republican record his cardinal campaign issue.

The next appearance of the Democratic candidate will be at Frederick, Maryland, on Wednesday afternoon. He will go to Baltimore for a speech there Wednesday night. Returning to New York for the Madison Square Garden engagement Thursday night, Davis will depart the following day on another long campaign swing. He will speak Friday in Newark, N. J., and Saturday in Providence, R. I.

The nominee's second western tour will begin Monday with appearances in Albany and Schenectady during the day. Arrangements for these two addresses have not yet been completed. He then will swing across New York state, speaking en route with set addresses in Syracuse and Utica Tuesday and in Buffalo Wednesday.

Touring through Ohio, Davis will speak in Cleveland Thursday, Toledo Friday and then spend the week end in Indiana. His itinerary thereafter has been only tentatively arranged. The last ten days of October the nominee has planned to spend in campaigning New England with occasional speeches up and down the Atlantic seaboard. He will close his campaign, however, in New York city with a series of addresses on October 31 and November 1.

MEN AND WOMEN IN THE NEWS SPOTLIGHT.

Willa Bennett, famous actress, has been sued at Mineola, Long Island, N. Y., for $100,000 by Mrs. Katherine M. Frey, former Kentucky belle, who alleges Miss Bennett alienated the affections of her husband, son of a well known Kentucky horse breeder. Lotta Crabtree, seventy-three, at one time America's foremost actress, is dead in Boston, leaving an estate valued at between $1,500,000 and $5,000,000. Mrs. Beverly D. Harris, wife of a former vice-president of the National City Bank, of New York City, America's greatest financial institution, has been freed, her husband refusing to press charges of forgery against her in connection with a letter she produced, purporting to be in his writing and acquitting her of charges he made in his divorce suit. Alfred E. Smith, defeated in the Democratic National Convention for nomination for the Presidency, has been renominated by the Democrats as their candidate for re-election as Governor of the State of New York.

LOVE FOR MINISTER TURNS TO ASHES.

This photograph of Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, of Ina, Ill., was taken in her cell at Salem, Ill., where she was taken for safe keeping after confessing she murdered her husband, Wilford Sweetin, with arsenic at the same time Rev. Lawrence M. Hight killed his wife by the same means, so they might be free to love each other. Her love for the pastor-murderer has turned to ashes since she found he was not the superman she deemed him. She divides her time in her cell between reading and weeping.

SENATORS NEED A WIN.

May Clinch Pennant Today by Beating Red Sox.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 29.—The Senators can clinch the American League pennant by beating the Red Sox in Boston today. The Yankees, two games behind, can tie for the lead by defeating the Athletics twice, should Washington lose two games to Boston.

Brooklyn finished in second place in the National League by beating Boston while Pittsburgh was losing to the Cubs.

GIANTS TO PLAY

TWO EXHIBITION GAMES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 29.—In the event that Washington clinches its hold on the American League pennant in the two remaining days of the race, it is the plan of John McGraw to take his Giants to the Nation's capital on Friday in order to give his men a full afternoon's practice at the Senator's park before the series opener there on Saturday. If the Senators win the pennant, it is likely they will make use of the Polo Grounds for practice on Thursday, it is said.

In order to keep the Giants on playing edge, McGraw will take his champions to New Haven tomorrow for an exhibition game with the Eastern League club of that city. The following day, the Giants will entertain the inmates of Sing Sing. It is possible that the Giants may play Waterbury, champions of the Eastern League, on Thursday at Waterbury.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Dodgers clinched second place by trimming the Braves, 5 to 1, in their last game of the season. Vance allowed only five hits, fanned nine, and hung up his 25th victory.

The Giants, with the pennant stowed away, let the Phillies have their fun in a battering spree. Score, Philadelphia, 11; New York, 6.

The Pirates finished the season in third place by losing to the Cubs, 7 to 2. Jacobs outpitched Meadows and Morrison.

The Cardinals ended the season in a blaze of glory, getting an even break by trimming the Reds in the first game of a double-header, 9 to 3. Cincinnati won the nightcap, 8 to 2.

Detroit and the White Sox fought ten rounds to a draw, darkness halting the game with the score tied at 10 all.

Training Hard for Speed Classic

Ralph De Palma and John Bowers are seen training for the Thanksgiving road race to be run near Los Angeles. Bowers, of movie fame, has entered and will drive himself. James J. Corbett, former champion of the ring, is seen looking 'em over.

Bib Falk Hitting Hard

Bib Falk, the temperamental left-handed outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, continues to hit the ball hard and now ranks among the first five leaders. Efforts were made this spring to induce Falk to pitch but he refused.

Jump Finish Is Big

Advantage to Star

Some sincere advisers have been trying to induce Charlie Paddock to abolish his jump finish. They have figured out that Paddock, by staying "on the ground," can gain a fraction of a second that he loses by hurrying himself over the finish line.

Paddock does not agree with them. He says the jump finish is an advantage to him. He points to several of his important races, won in close finishes. In these he would have been beaten, Paddock says, had he run across the finish line instead of hurrying over it.

If Paddock is convinced that he can win only by the jump finish then that seems to be the style for him to follow. He has done fairly well so far.

Opposite End of Boner

Fred Merkle now knows how it feels to be on the opposite end of a bone-headed play. With Fred at bat and two out in a recent game against Baltimore, a hit-and-run signal was wiggled and Griffin and Gonzales, who were on base, started with the pitch. Griffin, hearing Merkle's bat come in contact with the ball, put on speed and passed Gonzales on the way to the plate. It so happened that Fred's smash, which went far over the fence, was wasted. Rochester lost three runs and the game on the bone.

Deadlock in 800-Meter

The United States and England are now deadlocked in the matter of 800-meter victories in the Olympic games. Each of the countries has won the race four times. Lightbody, Pilgrim, Shepard and Ted Meredith have carried the American shield to the fore, while the British victors have been Flisk in 1906, Tyn in 1909, Hill in 1920 and Lowe this year.

Bike Race Around France

A bicycle race around France is held annually. Sixty of the 157 competitors in this year's contest finished having started from Paris and covered the 3,000 miles over mountains, valleys and plains. The winner was the Italian, Bottechia, whose time was 226 hours 18 minutes and 21 seconds. He led consistently throughout every stage of the long endurance test.

Kentucky Derby History

The Kentucky Derby was first run in 1875 and it has been held annually at Churchill Downs ever since that year. The distance of the race is one mile and a quarter and no horse has broken the time record in which Old Rosebud won the classic in 1914. The time was 2:03 2/5.

Dream Omens

There are various omens which portend the receiving of money. For instance, to dream of a yellow spider is a sure forerunner of gold, to dream of clear water brings a gift of money within the month, while to be given a yellow wild flower signifies a gift of gold.

Peck Sharpe Willing to Learn Card Trick

One of the funniest characters in sport is Peck Sharpe, who played baseball back in the Dark Ages. Several years ago Peck, Mike Cantillon, E. J. Archambault, well-known Milwaukeean, and Germany Schaefer went to Hot Springs together. The first night of their stay they started a card game, Cantillon and Archambault playing against Peck and Schaefer. Wishing to have a little sport with the comedians, Mike and Archie "framed" them, winning about $200. The next morning Cantillon told Sharpe what they had done, at the same time tendering him the money.

"Keep the coin, but tell me how you did it," was Peck's quick comeback.

Simplicity

Cultivate simplicity, Coleridge, or rather, I should say, banish elaborateness; for simplicity springs spontaneously from the heart, and carries into daylight its own modest buds, and genuine, sweet and clear flowers of expression; I allow no hotbeds in the gardens of Parnassus.—Charles Lamb.

BLOOMINGTON WON

15 INNING CONTEST.

The Bloomington A. C. defeated the Studebakers Sunday at Bloomington in a close and exciting game.

The Studebakers came from behind in the eighth and scored 4 runs, taking the lead, 5-4. Bloomington scored 2 in their half of the eighth and led going in the ninth 6-5. Studebakers scored one run, tying the score. Both teams played good ball until the 15th inning, when Hornbeck, first man up for Bloomington, reached first on an error, advanced to second on Port's sacrifice and took third on Leonard's long sacrifice fly to center. He then scored the winning run on a hunt by Hincley. North pitched good ball for the losing club, having 17 strikeouts to his credit. McLaughlin, for Bloomington, went the entire distance and would have won in the scheduled nine innings but for three bad errors by Jordan at second base. The fielding of Dewey Hornbeck at third and Leonard's hitting featured. Bloomington made seven double plays. Bloomington has lost but one game this season. Score by innings:

RECONCILIATION MAY FOLLOW BIRTH OF BOY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 29.—Friends of Colonel and Mrs. Henry Huddleston Rogers were wondering today whether or not the birth to their daughter, the Countess Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, of a son would effect a reconciliation between the grandparents and their son-in-law, the Count, who has spent most of his time in Europe, apart from his bride since they were married.
The heiress to a $40,000,000 estate and her infant were reported doing nicely. The baby, according to the mother, closely resembles its father.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 29.—Railroad and motor stocks continued their forward movements in the stock market today as trading in active shares in these and other groups broadened out and buying demand was sufficient to absorb all stock offerings at gradually rising prices. Pronounced weakness in the independent oil stocks due in large part to the renewal of attacks by bearish professional operators, unsettled the list in the early trading and industrial leaders were called on to absorb a large volume of profit taking sales.

The strength of outside markets, corn, cotton, wheat and foreign exchange was a stimulus.

Atchafalpa and Frisco Preferred, both in new high ground for the year, were leaders in the railroad stocks, though a number of the low priced shares, including New Haven, Southern Railway, Lehigh Valley, Norfolk and Southern were active at higher prices.

Of the industrial leaders, U. S. Steel was the only one that exerted itself forcibly, sold in large volume at an advance from 109 to 109 1/2 on the more favorable outlook. Foundation Company continued its rise to $7 1/2, an advance of 2 1/2 points over the day and about six points over the low of last week; motor stocks were the leaders in a moderate rally near the noon period; copper stocks were the first to show a decided trend toward lower prices, with Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco and Chile copper declining more than a point on the average.

Heavy selling of the industrials in the fourth hour resulted in a downward movement of prices in this section of the market, rails held steady and oils in this period were inactive rather than weak.

The rich traders took advantage of the situation provided by the advance in call money rates to 2 1/2 per cent and the absence of many traders from the street to crowd the market with speculative offerings in the last hour, and prices declined a point or more in many of the active stocks. U. S. Steel sold down from 109 1/2 to 108 1/2; railroad shares lost a part of their early gains; equipment and motor stocks were reactionary.

Mexican Seaboard, as the leader of the reactionary movement in the oils, lost 1 1/2 at 22; American Can lost 1 1/2 points at 128 1/2; as in previous sessions, the market turned dull on reactions, and the volume of business declined considerably in the last period. Chicago Great Western Preferred was active and strong in this period on rumors that Atchafalpa was negotiating for a block of the stock, presumably for the purpose of entering into a special combination with that road.

Last Minute Rush For Licenses

Up Until Noon Today 10,000 Out of 20,000 Received Motor Licenses—Inspector Will Enforce Law.

As was expected, there was a rush of the last minute people for motor operator licenses at the county clerk's office this morning, the office being crowded with applicants. Up to noon a total of 10,000 have been issued out of 20,000, which is the estimated number of motor vehicle operators in Ulster county.

There have been 400 applications received for chauffeur licenses, of which over two hundred, after road tests, have been granted licenses for thirty days.

Inspector Joseph O'Donnell, of the state motor vehicle department, states that instructions have been given by Charles A. Harnett, state motor vehicle commissioner, that on and after Wednesday the inspectors can make arrests for violations of the law which requires all operators or chauffeurs driving cars to have licenses.

Final instructions to the inspectors have been given and they are all ready to go out on the highways Wednesday morning. The first thing they will look for is the license and if the driver does not have one he must take the consequences.

Following the roundup of those without licenses the inspectors will start a campaign against glaring headlights and faulty brakes. Commissioner Harnett will shortly designate places where motorists may and have their headlights inspected. In all cases of accident the inspectors will investigate to see if faulty brakes were a contributing cause of the trouble.

Friends wishing to view the remains may do so Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Isaac Every at Shokan.

Samuel M. Gray, a well known resident of Ulster county, died at his home, 31 Albany avenue, early Sunday morning, having been ill for a year or more. He is survived by his wife, Verna; one daughter, Ethel H., and an infant son, Samuel M., Jr. The funeral will be held from the residence Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., with interment in the Saugerties cemetery. Samuel M. Gray was born in Saugerties, December 15, 1851, and was a son of Morgan Gray, who was born in Columbia county, January 30, 1824. He was of Scotch descent.

When Samuel was six months old, his parents moved to the town of Olive, Ulster county, where he lived until about eighteen years of age. He attended the district schools of education, to which he added much during his successful business career in later life. Leaving school, Mr. Gray worked on his father's farm for a time and then for two years engaged in buying and selling butter in Ulster and Greene counties. In 1876 he opened a grocery store at Quarryville, and later enlarged his business by adding general merchandise. This he continued for nine years and in 1883 established a wholesale flour, feed, grain and grocery business in the village of Saugerties, where he did a very large and most successful business. In 1885 he sold the Quarryville interests to his brother, John Gray, and moved to Saugerties, giving his entire attention to the wholesale business there. He did the largest business in his line of any firm in Ulster county, shipping from 30 to 60 carloads of grain a month. Several years ago he sold his business in Saugerties to Phelps & Mower, after having purchased the John C. Brodhead residence at 31 Albany avenue, this city, and conducted a wholesale grain commission business with an office in the rear of the lot, doing a large business during the world war. In 1898 he built the large wholesale grain and grocery house at 15 Railroad avenue for Matthews & Harrison, known as the Gray building, now occupied by F. B. Matthews & Co., Inc., and the Kingston Grain Company. Mr. Gray in 1919 purchased the estate of Mrs. Carrie Winnie the controlling interest in the Ulster County Hotel Corporation, owners of the Hotel Stuyvesant. For 12 years he was a member of the board of education; was made president of the sewer commission when that village installed its sewer system, and was president of the Saugerties Club from the time of its organization until he removed to Kingston in 1908. He was one of the ablest lawyers in Ulster county. For nearly 25 years he was a director and general adviser of the First National Bank of Saugerties. Upon removing to Kingston he became connected with the Kingston National Bank, now the Kingston Trust Company, at one time serving as its vice-president. He was known and respected throughout Greene and Ulster counties for his business acumen, sound judgment and for his honesty and uprightness in dealings with his fellow-men. The Gray family is a very ancient one, being connected with

Tar Party Leader Pleads Guilty

Woman Who Led Maryland Party Which Applied Tar and Feathers to 20 Year Old Girl Admits She Led Mob.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Frederick, Md., Sept. 29.—Throwing herself on the mercy of the court, Mrs. Mary Shank, the 31 year old wife of Lloyd Shank, who led the mob that tarred and feathered pretty 20 year old Dorothy Grandon on Myersville road last July, today pleaded guilty in circuit court here.

Mrs. Shank's plea of guilty was unexpected. Twenty men, indicted with Mrs. Shank, did not change their pleas and their trial went on before a crowded room.

Mrs. Shank pleaded guilty to tarring and feathering but pleaded not guilty to assault and aiding and abetting a riot. The penalty for her crime under the state law is 18 months to 20 years in the penitentiary.

State's Attorney William M. Storm was so pleased with the plea of guilty that he plans to drop the other charges against Mrs. Shank.

Mrs. Shank, according to her own confession, led the mob that found her husband and the pretty Grandon girl together on Myersville road. While the men held her, Mrs. Shank stripped most of the girl's clothing off, applied hot tar and then filled the tar with feathers. No tar and no feathers were applied to the husband. What his wife did to him—if anything—was never revealed.

Cleopatra Died in Rage?

That Cleopatra died in bed, starving and in rags, is the contention of an English writer.

Wrong Roads

You can always tell when you are on the wrong roads. There are no detour signs.

The history of England and Scotland since the days of William the conqueror. For their services to their country they became a titled and landed family but all titles and lands became forfeit when Edward, who espoused the cause of the Colonies, gave monies and support to the rebels in Boston in 1776. He was seized by General Gates and sent back to England in irons as a traitor to the crown. He died in London Tower. His sons then emigrated to America and founded the present line. Mr. Gray was a brother of the late John H. Gray and Charles E. Gray. He is survived by three sisters, Caroline, wife of Daniel York of Saugerties; Mary, wife of O. T. Smith of Catskill, Abby, wife of Frank Smith of Haines Falls. In early life he married Isabella Hommel of Quarryville, N. Y., who died five years ago. A daughter, Ethel H. survives. About three years ago he married Verna Moore. A small son, Samuel Martin Gray Jr., also survives.

Panorama of Events in Newspaper Pages

Since a professor in one of the leading western universities (Wisconsin) has drawn attention to the importance placed upon newspapers as historians of the times and urges their study upon the public generally and upon schools and colleges as textbooks of information of current events, it may not be immodest slightly to emphasize the truth of the professional opinion.

No newspaper man yields his just pride in the product of his toil. As put into the hand of the reader, the newspaper is a daily monument to an industry, intelligence and organization genius which is all but incomparable in any other sphere of human manufacture. However, let that go.

It is as the exhibitor of the vast panorama of world events that the public is concerned with the newspaper, says the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. For an insignificant sum and with no effort by himself, the reader sees pass before him on the printed page the multitudinous activities of men, great and small, the performances of nature, benign and malign to the interest of human kind. Money-eyed Argus did not see and repeat a tithe of what the sleepless and all-embracing eye of the press observes and instantly reports for the information or entertainment of its readers.

History in the making is there daily written, and to the man who can relate cause and effect, who can forecast from a seemingly insignificant event printed in the columns of his newspaper a whole chain of consequences, culminating in some alteration of affairs that will profoundly affect the lives of millions of people, the study of his news sheet is a fascinating pursuit.

The man who really reads a modern newspaper and does not merely skim through it, receives a liberal education in the arts and sciences, the humanities, the psychology of human nature, and is informed upon a variety of things which only a few years ago no one man could hope to know. The university of Wisconsin professor is quite right; the newspaper is well worth study.

Learning to Cook

A bride of three months lives in a flat and has become very friendly with her neighbors. She strolled into a company of other women who have their habitat in the same building, sat down and said she was tired. Of course another woman asked what she had been doing.

"Just prepared dinner for my beloved," she said, "and for one who never cooked before it was some task."

Colonials Split With Generals

D. & H. Generals Stage Rally in Ninth, Winning Second Game—
Russell Pitches Good Ball in Opening Game, Allowing One Run.
"Nothing is sure in baseball."
How often we hear those words, and yet how seldom it is that we really believe them. But after Sunday's second game with the D. & H. Generals there aren't a dozen fans who saw the game who will not say and believe "Nothing is sure in baseball."

The Schrickmen won the first game 8 to 1 and lost the second, 2 to 1.

The Colonials had pounded the offerings of Monell quite freely in the first game and Russell had held the Railroaders to a single tally, a homer from the bat of Kelly Herbst. The second game developed into a fine duel between Rube Forsythe and Freddie Rossback. Rube had the better of the argument until the ninth inning and the Colonials were leading at the start of the last session by a lone run.

Dollard led off for the visitors in the ninth and grounded to Deegan. Rossback hit to short and the ball took a nasty hop over Flynn's head and rolled into left field. Phelps sent Rossback along a peg with a liner past the hot corner that Fitz couldn't even get his hands on. Tyring run on second and winning run on first, one down; nice, pleasant situation. Rube eased the tension a bit by forcing Kurth to pop to Raskin, but disaster followed that. Marterer strode to the plate and blasted the Colonials' hopes for a double victory with a hit over shortstop. The blow was but a single but the ball bounded away from Bill Schwab's eager mitts and Phelps scurried past third and scored. Kelly Herbst found Culliton on the mound in Forsythe's place. Kelly also found him difficult to hit and ended the rally with a pop to Deegan. But the damage was done.

The series between the two teams stood three to two in favor of the Colonials before yesterday's games and the even break didn't make any difference. The Colonials' line-up was quite changed from last week. Roy Atkins, premier Glenn Falls outer gardener, was in right field and the diminutive Leo Dugan was back in his old place in center. Coyle's absence made it necessary for Raskin to cover first and Tubby did it very creditably. The additions to the team added quite a bit of power to the Colonials' attack and also strengthened the defense considerably.

Russell Worked Well.
Clyde Russell worked the first game for the Schrickmen and was very seldom in any difficulty. He allowed seven hits and Kelly Herbst, the indomitable Kel, spoiled a shut-out for Russell by a tremendous clout over the right field fence in the sixth inning. Kelly had to catch both games and what with the home run, catcher's mask, etc., etc., Kelly had a big afternoon.

Monell was pitted against Clyde and wasn't quite as successful as he usually is against the Schrickmen. A single by Dugan and a double by Raskin in the first inning. The second was also a tough one for Monell. He walked Flynn and then got Schwab on a fly to Hickey. Robins singled to right and Russell hit into a force play. Fitzpatrick walked filling the bases and Leo Dugan crashed a double off the right field fence scoring the three runners.

With one down in the first, Kurth got a single over second. Marterer followed with a hit between short and third. Herbst hit the first pitch for a liner to right field. It had a two-base label on it and no mistake about that either. Matty Deegan made a wild leap, and speared the ball with his gloved hand. It was an almost impossible play and Matty added to it by tossing to Raskin, doubling Marterer off first.
After Herbst's homer in the sixth, Bill Schwab waxed inquisitive wondering how Kelly ever hit one as far as the fence. Schwab thought of it so much that he tried it himself and he says that he wasn't a bit surprised when he saw the ball sail over the left field wall. Matty Deegan was on third at the time by virtue of his double and Flynn's out.

Singles by Atkins and Raskin and an infield out put men on second and third in the seventh. Porky Flynn scored them with a double. Incidentally that ended the runmaking for the first game.

Forsythe vs. Rossback.
Brilliant and sparkling plays saved Forsythe from certain disaster in the second game. Schwab, Raskin, Fitzpatrick and Dugan all furnished fielding gems and usually at critical stages of the pastime when a hit meant the ball game. Dissatisfaction over the rulings of the umpire on bases brought an unusual situation in this game. Manager Phelps protested to Manager Schrick and the judge agreed to let a player take the position of assistant to Jordan. Monell was selected and his decisions met with favor.

The Colonials found that Rossback's fast one was exceedingly hard to connect with and got to the speed king for but six safeties in the course of the game. The only local tally was the result of very clever base-running.
Fitz opened the sixth with a bunt between the pitcher's box and third base. Kurth and Rossback both tried but couldn't reach the tap in time to

Brooklyn Team Here Wednesday

Wednesday afternoon at the Fair Grounds the Brooklyn National League team will play the Colonials. The sensational run of fifteen straight games by the Brooklyn team, putting them in the lead in the National League for a few hours, and making them contenders for the title, makes this outfit one of the best attractions ever appearing in this city. The outstanding players of the team are scheduled to appear here.

Bud Culliton will be pitted against the big leaguers and a good game is looked forward to. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock and the record attendance of the season is expected.

Death Defers Polo Match.

get the flying Fitz. Leo Dugan dropped another bunt and sacrificed Howard along. The bunt was down the third base base and Fitzpatrick gave the fans a thrill when he rounded second like a scared rabbit and wheeled on into third. Schermerhorn's return throw across the diamond was perfect but Fitz had it beat with a fine slide. That was the cleverest piece of base-running ever exhibited on the local diamond. Roy Atkins sent Fitz home with a single to left field.

The first General batter in the seventh, Rossback, singled to right. Phelps attempted to bunt but lifted a little pop down the first base line. Tubby Raskin came tearing in and snatched the ball off the grass-tops for a truly remarkable play. It was the exact duplicate of the play Lefty Grimm made against the Colonials in the Colonial-Pirate game. Kurth hit into the far reaches of left field and Schwab made a catch that nicely matched that of Raskin's. Bill took the ball over his shoulder on a dead run and held Phelps to first on the play. Those two plays snuffed out any chance of a run in the seventh.

Kelly Herbst opened the eighth with a double to center. Hickey tried twice to bunt and then lifted a high one back of third. Fitz went right to the edge of the bleachers in back of third to make the catch. Herbst couldn't advance after the play. The next two batters hit back at Rube and were easy outs. And that led up to the ninth.

Rossback manufactured the winning runs in their half of the ninth, and then Freddie turned the Colonials back in the last half of the inning. Flynn was out, Colket to Schermerhorn, but Schwab walked. Robins hit to Rossback and was thrown out. Schwab taking second. Jimmy Morgan was sent in to hit and for once the reliable old-timer failed, going out on a long fly to Eddie, Jr.

Washington a Fighting Outfit
Senators Led by Bucky Harris, Feel Certain of Meeting Giants—Some Points About the Washington Organization.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Mass., Sept. 29.—Bucky Harris and his gang of fighting Griffis, feeling certain of facing the New York Giants for the world's title of 1924, expect to step into that series at the same headlong pace which has carried them from nowhere to the top of the American League, in the hottest struggle in that league since 1908.

STANLEY BUCK HARRIS

It's the only kind of baseball they know—"The Bucky Harris brand," produced by the 27-year-old leader of Washington's first pennant hopes.
In May the Griffins were sixth. Five weeks later, at the expense of the Tigers and Yankees, they were first. A cruel series of double-headers shoved them back to third, but Bucky Harris never stops fighting. He is baseball's Stanley Ketchel. His team is a horde of Ketchels.
The Griffis would not be stopped. Late in August they climbed once more into first place, over the Yankees. Facing the stiffest opposition in the final three weeks, they have delivered blow for blow, asked no quarter and held their grip on first place. They will enter the world series prepared for anything and everything. They see victory ahead.

Four cardinal points may be seen in the work of Washington's club:
First—Bucky Harris, as manager and second baseman, par excellence, is a human dynamo. He has put fight into the same players who had a hard time to take fourth place last year.
Second—The battery work has been uniformly smooth. Muddy Ruel has shown marvelous skill in handling a capable, hard working pitching staff.

Third—The infield is practically perfect.
Fourth—The outfield has speed and punch.
It is difficult to single out individuals among the Griffins. The players have been so welded into a fighting machine that the real praise goes to the organization rather than to this player or that. Bucky Harris rightly gets the credit for that.

World series usually are decided by pitching. Washington has the great Walter Johnson, at his best in cool weather; George Mogridge, a heady, clever curve ball southpaw; Tecumseh Zachary, a southpaw with a good bag of tricks, and Fred Marberry, the best relief pitcher in the league. This quartet will do most of the work.

In the infield, there is Judge, a first sacker of speed and experience, a 300 hitter, a fast base runner. Babe Ruth calls him the league's best. Harris has not fallen off in his playing because of managerial duties. A fast and smart fielder, dangerous hitter in pinches and excellent base runner. Roger Peckinpaugh, veteran shortstop, has never been better. He is the steady influence of the infield.

Ossie Bluege, 23-year-old third baseman, is finishing the campaign as a 300 hitter. It is doubtful if Joe Dugan of the Yankees or Willie Kamm of the White Sox surpasses him in the infield.

Speed characterizes the outfield. Sam Rice has been a high class player for years. He has outdone himself all season. Goose Goslin, slugging left fielder, is the team's big punch. He is always dangerous at bat, is a fair fielder and a fair runner.

Fair McNeely, the California flash, in center field, may distinguish himself in the series. He is hitting above .300, fielding as well as Rice and running bases like another Bill Lange.

Behind the bat, working every day, is little Muddy Ruel. No catcher in the majors outclasses him for brains. He throws with any of them and hits soundly.

The club is called "the fighting Griffis." It is a title honestly earned and may be well recalled during the big series.

Groh and Frisch Expected to Play

In Opening Game of World Series on Saturday—Giants Probable Line-up For Opener—Groh and Frisch Needed.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 29.—From a source no farther away from Mr. McGraw than his most immediate heel prints came the announcement today that Heinie Groh and Frank Frisch would be in the line-up of the New York Giants for the opening game of the world series on Saturday.

At the moment, Groh is disporting a demountable knee and Frisch is wearing a balloon tire in lieu of the middle finger on this throwing hand, the result of injuries during the late stages of the National League race.

Alleged interviews have McGraw quoted to the effect that he is certain both infielders will be on the field when he rings for the first number of the annual fall nuisance. McGraw has made no such prediction and will make none until such time as it pleases him to do so.

The writer is given to understand that McGraw hopes to disconcert the Senators by keeping his line-up an official secret until the last moment. That also sounds like a bed time story, but it is offered for what it may be worth, if anything.

Around headquarters, it is the general belief that the Giants will take the field as follows: Groh, third base; Frisch, second base; Young, right field; Kelly, center field; Terry, first base; Wilson, left field and Jackson, short stop, batting in that order. Either Gowdy or Snyder will be behind the plate, with the former favored.

Arthur Neff is the existing choice to pitch the opener, if any choice can be made at this premature hour. He is being rested with this end in view, but even a bat boy knows that pitching selections are an eleventh hour business.

With five days remaining, Groh still was getting around with the aid of a cane today. But the general idea is that Groh is using the cane to prevent further strain rather than as a necessary means of locomotion. Of the two, Groh has less chance of playing than Frisch. He is a fragile specimen and his age may militate against a speedy recovery.

In that case, Lindstrom will prove an adequate substitute. That young man is a fine fielder and fair hitter, lacking only Groh's big series experience. Just how much value the latter is in some cases has been proved by Joe Sewell, Babe Adams and other world series stars of former years, almost unknown before the games began.

Frisch's injury probably will interfere with the business of ripping a bat and taking throws at second base; yet in all, will hardly reduce the star's efficiency by as much as ten per cent. Except on plays coming from the right side of the infield, Frisch can take throws on his gloved hand, and in any case, the Giants need him too much to have him out of the lineup. An injured Frisch is better than any physically sound substitute McGraw might name.

Walden Beat Red Sox.
At Walden Saturday the home club downed the Poughkeepsie Red Sox 4 to 2. Hesch pitched for the winners and Rossback for the Red Sox.
